Your all-in-one control center

Imagine an online meeting place where you could work more effectively. A destination where you could post files, share content, and collaborate with anyone, quickly and easily. Igloo is a modern intranet that lets you bring your existing apps into your workplace hub, to help you communicate and collaborate on a whole new level.

With Igloo, you design your community to look, feel, and work the way you want it to. Bring in the external apps – like Office 365, Box, Dropbox, and Google Drive – you already use and love, and take advantage of the built-in features from Igloo to create the workplace destination of your dreams. (Have no fear, IT guy. You still set the overall permissions, and manage SSO: nothing's changed there.)

"A portal should link people to other applications. A great solution should offer that."

Spencer Mains, Director of Technology and Knowledge Systems at Giant Creative Strategy

Let's break it down

People

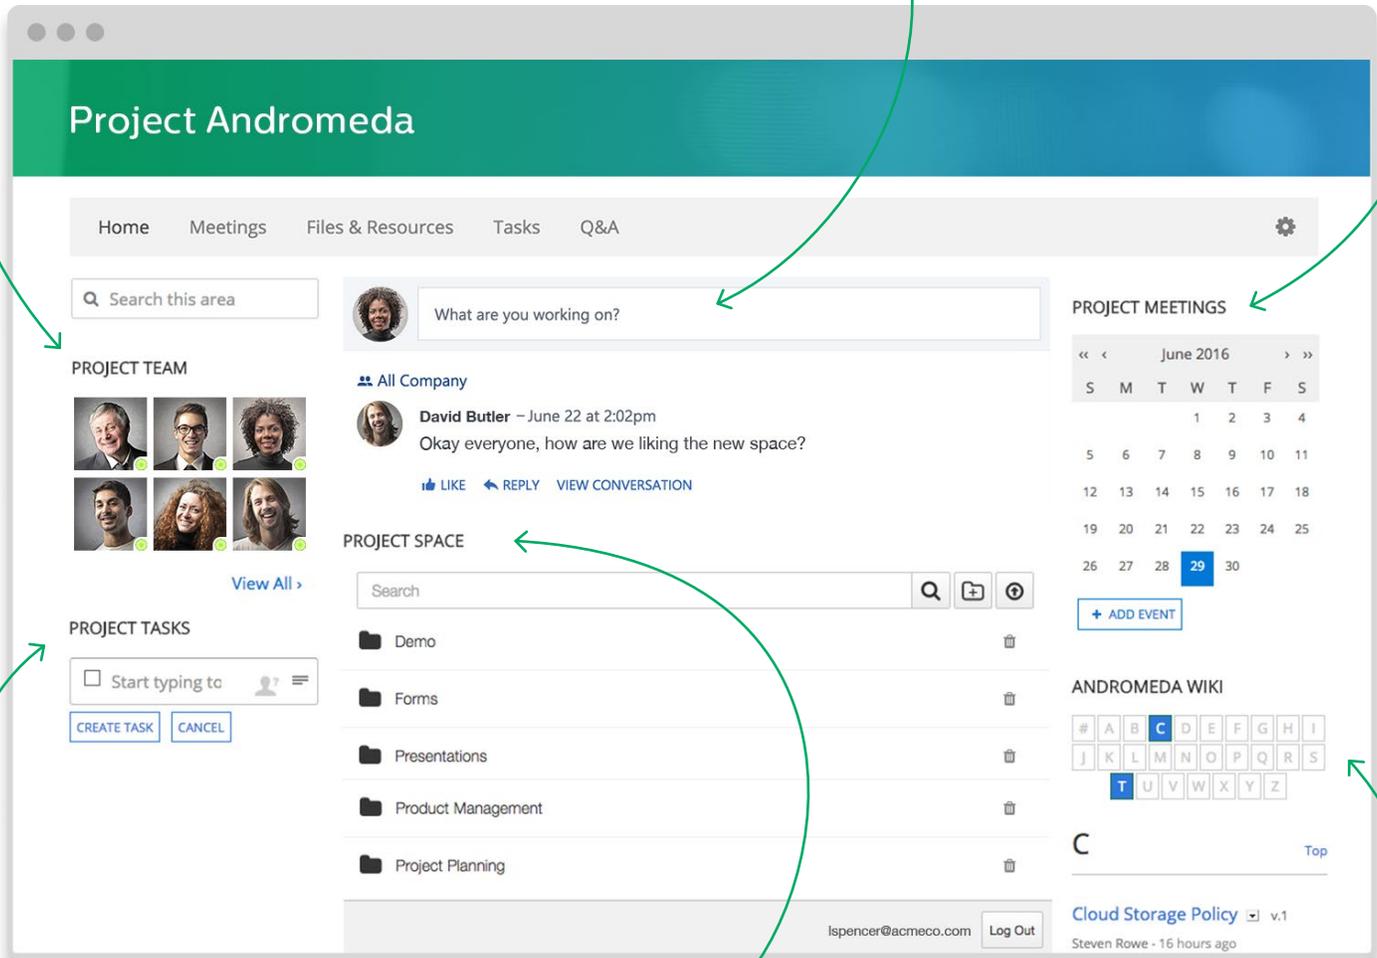

Add people to a specific project space and connect with anyone in a few easy clicks.

Employee chatter

Bring Yammer into your Igloo to create a virtual water cooler for posting quick updates, funny stories, and team-wide kudos throughout the day.

Calendaring

Keep organized and on time – set up a calendar for the company or the team, and stay on track for key dates, deadlines, and meetings.

Tasks

Keep track of who's responsible for project deliverables, and assign tasks to team members in one easy step.

File management

Collaborate on documents in one place, in the context of the projects you're working on, whether documents are stored in SharePoint, OneDrive, or Igloo.

Wikis

Document policies, procedures, best practices – you name it. Edit or add new content as needed to keep everyone organized and up to date.

An app for every purpose

Supercharge your productivity with a modern intranet like Igloo. The apps you use to do business are built directly into your community, so that data and decision-making always go hand in hand. Work with information from your CRM, HR, project management apps, and more, in real time without ever leaving your Igloo.

Staying on track

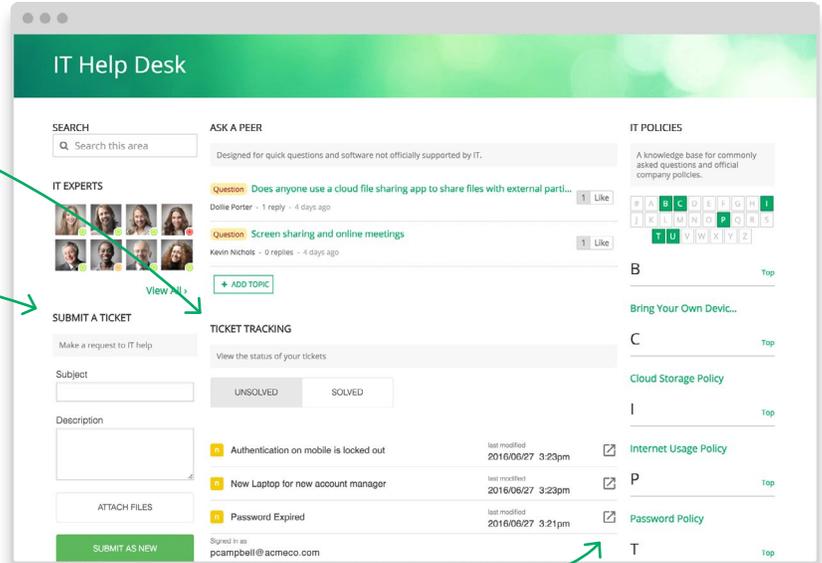

View all of your support tickets – past and present – at a glance.

Get help

Submit new support ticket requests while you work.
